Delay of Allies to Settle Mandate Question Is Laid to America by English Delegate—Sweden's Repreventative Rebukes Council, Charging Secrecy

GENEVA, Sept. 8.—The delay of the Allies in settling the mandate question was laid to the United States by Lord Robert Cecil, of England, in a speech before the League of Nations assembly today. Lord Robert Cecil submitted a resolution asking the league council to define the terms of the mandates forthwith, "regretting the previous delay in doing so."

Lord Robert's speech and his resolution stirred up the assembly, and when he concluded there was an excited buzz of conversation. Some of the delegates interpreted the speech and the resolution as a direct slap at the United States, which came at a time when the United States is engaged in negotiations with the Allies on the question of mandates.

Lord Robert deplored the failure of the league council to settle the mandate question, but declared that the delay was entirely due to the attitude of the United States. America, he said, has adopted a purely negative attitude.

Swedish Delegate Charges Secrecy

There was another sensation when Dr. Branting of Sweden, at the opening of debate on the report of the league council, charged the council with carrying on secret diplomacy and enacting secret agreements.

Dr. Branting made a sharp attack against the council and its manner of doing business. He declared that secret settlements had been made, while subsequently it was announced that the settlements had been conducted in public. The Swedish delegate intimated that some of the settlements had been actuated by war hatred.

Says League is Failure

"The action of the council of the League of Nations has caused the world to believe that the league has failed to meet expectations," said Dr. Branting.

Chile-Bolivia Dispute Unsolved

The territorial dispute between Chile and Bolivia involving the Chilean-Bolivian treaty of 1904, is still in abeyance, while the assembly studies the counter claims of the two South American republics. The assembly has promised both countries that a final decision will be given before the present session ends, but the dilemma is proving a serious one.

VALLEY BOOSTERS ARE ENTERTAINED

The secretaries of the various chambers of commerce of the San Fernando Valley were entertained last night by Secretary Rhoades of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Rhoades at their home. Before journeying to the Rhoades home the visitors were entertained at the chamber of commerce dinner given at the White Inn.

The question of the booths to be maintained by the various chambers of commerce of the valley at the San Fernando fair, was discussed, as were other activities concerning the coming fair.

Among the guests present were Cecil Wilcox, secretary of the Lankershim chamber of commerce, and Mrs. Wilcox; G. M. McCary, secretary of the Van Nuys chamber of commerce, and Mrs. McGary; W. H. Conner, secretary of the San Fernando chamber of commerce and Mrs. Conner, and Hugh Pomeroy, of the Burbank chamber of commerce.

GARDNER STILL FREE

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 8.—Prison guards with launch and patrol boats with searchlights, continued the search for Roy Gardner, arch bandit who escaped from McNeil's Island Federal prison Monday, throughout last night, but could report no progress today.

Nearly a hundred residents of the island have been sworn in as special deputies and are assisting the officers in the search for the fugitive.

Warden Thomas Maloney contends that every avenue of escape for Gardner has been cut off.

GUSHERS REPORTED AS BROUGHT IN AT TAMPICO FIELD

(By International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—If all reports coming here from Tampico are true, great numbers of important new oil wells are being brought in at Amatlan and elsewhere in the oil district. Some of the gushers are reported to be producing 150,000 barrels of oil a day. It is nothing to hear of new wells yielding 30,000 barrels a day.

Practically all of the new wells are on properties belonging to the great producing companies. It is known that these companies have been doing much drilling, and oil men here believe that the reports concerning new wells are substantially true, with the possibility of some exaggeration as to the amount of the daily production.

One of the companies which is reported to have brought in a spectacular gusher is the Tidemex, and this was particularly interesting news to oil men because of the rather unlucky history of this company in Mexico. It is allied in a way with the Tidewater Oil Company and entered the Tampico region with almost limitless financial resources and with oil experts of every description.

The company acquired extensive and valuable property and outlined an ambitious programme, which included the building of a railroad, pipe lines, an extensive terminal, tank farms and refinery.

Because the oil property of the company was looked upon as valuable and because the Tidemex managers were recognized experts in their line, it was expected that the Tidemex would quickly become one of the great producing companies of Mexico. But the first well of the company was a disappointment. The drills reached salt water, and work was stopped. This was at the time of reports that the oil field was narrowing to a small strip and is said to have caused changes in the plans of the company.

Drilling was continued, however. Now comes the report that the Tidemex has brought in a gusher, producing 150,000 barrels a day.

If the well is as great as described, oil men say, the Tidemex probably will go ahead with its extensive plans, which call for the spending of millions.

GIRL STAGES PISTOL BATTLE ON BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Police today are searching for a girl gangster, believed to be a leader of a bootlegging gang, who took part in a pistol battle between a rival gang, her gang and the police. The battle took place in the heart of the Broadway theatrical district. Pedestrians threw themselves to the sidewalk to escape the rain of bullets, which flew from one automobile to the other. Shots failed to halt the girl, who was driving, and she, together with her gang, made her getaway.

COOPER OFFERS PRIZE

To stimulate activity in the present drive for new members to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, C. C. Cooper, president of the C. of C. and also president of the First National Bank of Glendale, has promised to deposit to the credit of the person bringing in the most new members, the sum of $25. This will be deposited in the savings department of the First National Bank. This offer is open to everyone with the exception of officers and employes of the Chamber of Commerce.

Proposal of Peace Conference on September 20 Is Submitted to Irish as Limit of Concessions by England—Acceptance Will Continue Armistice to End of Parley

LONDON, Sept. 8.—With the British cabinet's note to Eamonn de valera proposing a peace conference September 20 due at Dublin today, belief was increasing today that the Sinn Fein will accept and will return an answer to Premier Lloyd George within a few days.

In the event of a deadlock in the Irish negotiations parliament will be summoned immediately, said an Inverness dispatch to the Evening News.

Announcement was made that the cabinet would issue the text of the note at Inverness at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The morning newspapers were cautious in their comment. The attitude of the press was summed up by the Daily Telegraph which headed its editorial "Suspense."

Conference in Scotland

It is understood that the proposal is made to hold the Anglo-Irish peace conference at Inverness, Scotland, where the cabinet met yesterday and drafted the Irish note, but it is not yet definitely determined where the parley will take place, if it is held.

It is believed that de Valera's statement in Dublin on Tuesday and his sharp references to a possible English ultimatum was chiefly responsible for the rejection of the proposal that a time limit be given to the Sinn Fein for acceptance or rejection of the six main points in the original English peace offer. The suggestion of an ultimatum was made at the Inverness cabinet meeting, but was voted down.

Large English Delegation

If the peace parley is held it is probable that the English delegation will be a large one, consisting of Premier Lloyd George, Lord Birkenhead, the lord chancellor; Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary; Austin Chamberlain, government spokesman in the house of commons; Winston Churchill, colonial minister; Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland; Home Secretary Edward Short, Sir Lamington Worthington-Evans and the Right Hon. Robert Monro.

De Valera probably would head the Sinn Fein delegation but there has been no suggestion as yet as to the rest of the personnel.

The next move in the peace game is up to the Sinn Fein.

In the meantime military activities are reported from Ulster on the part of the Unionists, but the armistice is being observed so far as actual hostilities are concerned.

SINN FEIN MEETS TO RECEIVE NOTE

DUBLIN, Sept. 8.—Sinn Fein leaders were in consultation all day, conferring upon the peace developments and preparing for the receipt of the British cabinet's note.

During the morning the Sinn Fein received a deputation from County Down, headed by John O'Neill, M. P., that asked the Republicans to "rescue County Down from partition."

The delegates produced figures to show that there are more nationalists in County Down that in Tyrone and Fermanagh counties.

"We mean to do everything in our power to obstruct partition," said O'Neill.

County Down, County Tyrone and County Fermanagh are all in Ulster province, the seat of Unionist or anti-Sinn Fein sentiment in Ireland. It has been proposed that Ireland be partitioned so that Ulster would not be under Sinn Fein domination if the Republicans reach a settlement with England.

A report was current here that an American delegation was coming to Ireland to urge acceptance of the English offer.

"Neither the Sinn Fein cabinet nor myself is aware of any such committee," said de Valera. "We are quite certain that all our American friends, while anxious, realize that this question affecting the lives and fortunes of Irish people, is one the people of Ireland must settle for themselves."

COMRADES HONOR LYNWOOD GARWOOD

Motorcycle Officers M. G. Collins and W. E. Trautwein were part of the delegation of motorcycle officers from all over Los Angeles and Orange counties that attended the funeral of Motorcycle Officer Lynwood Garwood, formerly a traffic officer in Glendale, who lost his life last Sunday night at Culver City.

Forty motorcycle officers in uniform and riding their machines escorted the body to Inglewood cemetery, where services were held. In addition to the escort of officers, four airplanes flew over the procession, dropping flowers as a tribute to the officer who gave his life in the discharge of his duty. At the grave, throughout the services, the airplanes hovered above the crowd and literally showered flowers over the grave.

Officer Garwood, who was a well-known police officer, not only in Los Angeles, but throughout Southern California, was found Sunday night by passing motorists lying by the side of the road, near his wrecked machine. He was rushed to a hospital, but died before regaining consciousness. It is the belief that he was pursuing a speeding motorist and that the wheels of his motorcycle locked, causing the accident.

$15,000 BUILDING PERMIT IS ISSUED

The September building permit total took a big jump today with Henry Michel's $15,000 apartment house on Hawthorne, by the side of the one he is just completing, and several residences, ranging in price from $2000 to $4000. The September total is now $87,425, and that for the year 1921 thus far, $2,977,894. The end of the week will probably see the three million mark passed.

MINERS OF ILLINOIS THREATEN TOWN; CITIZENS ARM

(By International News Service)

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill., Sept. 8.—Citizens of Elizabethtown were arming early today in preparation to meet a rumored invasion of a band of striking fluorspar miners and sympathizers.

Reports early today said that nearly 1000 miners were encamped on the outskirts of the town and intended marching on Elizabethtown and Rosiclare some time this forenoon.

No verification was obtainable early today of reports that two miners were shot in a fight between here and Harrisburg late yesterday. Five strikers who were arrested by deputy sheriffs without a shot being fired, are in jail here.

ENDS 63-HOUR SWIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Forging along on a steady trudge-on-crawl stroke, Miss Milla Gade, 22 years old, Danish woman swimming champion, arrived at the Battery at 10:57 a. m. today, completing a 143-mile swim from Albany, which she started last Friday. She was in the water 63 hours and 35 minutes, which sets a new record for the swim.

MINNESOTA SAVED

McGRATH, Minn., Sept. 8.—Drenching rains that fell throughout the night over the entire forest fire area of northern Minnesota gave definite assurance today that the threatened villages of Onamia, Hollman and Johnsdale had been saved.

SOUTH GAINS HALF A BILLION DOLLARS BY COTTON RISE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—There was a certain amount of optimism in business circles here today, following the sensational rise in the price of cotton, which has added some $500,000,000 in ten weeks to the wealth of the cotton growing states of the South. Bankers, merchants and others were interested to know just what effect the rise of cotton would have on the further business revival, which has already brought large orders to New England spinning mills and set them going full tilt after months of idleness.

John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, telephoned this exclusive statement to the International News Service:

"I think more than one commodity will have to rise in value to affect in any substantial way the conditions at present existing, but I believe the worst of the depressing times is over so far as general business is concerned.

"There will have to be congestion in cities like New York and Chicago from over-speculation in the uncertainties of newly formed companies, based on subscription to shares of stock which thus far have not been marketable.

"The rise in cotton is one of the galaxy of new stars appearing every week and we must be cheerful and hopeful and talk things down, not talk them up."

Mr. Wanamaker, it will be remembered, was one of the first to detect the buyers' strike a year ago and the necessity of cutting prices.

Leopold S. Bache, head of the banking firm of J. S. Bache & Co., who recently retired as president of the New York cotton exchange, explained the movement in cotton and its probable effect upon general business conditions, as follows:

"The upward movement in cotton was started by persons who had sold short great quantities of staple, and who realized that basically they were wrong. They rushed to buy cotton, and started the swing upward, not only here but in every market in the world.

"But this rise in price is more than a speculative movement. It is the beginning of the end of frozen credits and nation-wide depression. It means the loosening up of funds, not only here but in England."

COTTON ADVANCES; BECOMES UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The cotton market had another very active opening today. The first sale of October was at a net decline of 150 points or $7.50 a bale, but later transactions in that contract, as well as in others, showed that values were inclined to rally, due to re-buying by bulls after a 3-cent decline from the top. At the upturn, renewed selling developed and the market became very unsettled, with the prices at the end of the first 15 minutes about 100 points, or $5 a bale, under yesterday's close.

The market at Liverpool, which was very weak at first, rallied considerably before the opening here.

SPLIT ON SALES TAX

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The sales tax as a practical method of simplifying the complicated and burdensome taxation system imposed upon the American people by the World War, was one of a series of revenue revision proposals on which the Senate finance committee split today, when Secretary of the Treasury Mellon appeared before it in closed executive session.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 8.—Two unidentified negroes and a white man were arrested early today by Denver police, charged with holding up a westbound Burlington railroad freight train, 15 miles east of this city early this morning, and robbing several "hoboes" of approximatley $200.

Plan Enrollment of 300 New Members Every Week at Enthusiastic Meeting of All Workers, Which Was Held at White Inn Last Evening

A rousing meeting of the committees that are to take care of the "activities" of the present campaign of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce for 300 new members within a week was held at the White Inn at 6:30 o'clock last night. From the spirit of enthusiasm that was manifest at this session it is a foregone conclusion that the goal will be reached long before the time limit.

There are four committees in charge of this membership work, each committee consisting of ten members. Of this 40 there were 23 present, and everyone who attended is filled with a spirit that speaks big things from this drive.

Dr. Russell's Committee

The committee of Dr. Jessie A. Russell showed the largest percentage of members present. Eight out of ten of Dr. Russell's committee were on hand. There were six of Mrs. Margaret L. Biggs' committee at the meeting. Edward B. Ellias had five of his committee on hand to receive instructions for the work they are expected to do, while four members of the committee of Mrs. Ella Richardson were there. This, both Secretary Rhoades and Assistant Secretary Sanders feel, is the finest showing of its kind that has ever turned out in the support of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and they are expecting big things in this drive. On account of previous engagements some of the "live wires" were unable to be present.

Dinner Served

The first hour of the meeting was given to one of those excellent White Inn dinners. After the dinner Secretary Rhoades departed to his home, taking with him the secretaries of the chambers of commerce of this valley, who had been invited as the guest of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to the dinner. This was the time of the regular meeting of the different chamber of commerce secretaries and it was Secretary Rhoades turn to entertain.

Sanders Leads Meeting

Following the departure of the various secretaries the meeting was turned over to Assistant Secretary Sanders, who, after a short preliminary talk, gave the workers a masterful address on the requisites of modern salesmanship. By the time he had finished, his hearers had absorbed so much enthusiasm that they were ready for any task, any undertaking.

Making Plans

Following this address a working plan was devised, this to be followed out by all of the committees working in this drive. The city is being divided into four sections, one chairman and committee having charge of each district. Each section is being divided into blocks and one or more blocks are being assigned to each member of each committee.

The various members of the committees will report to their respective chairmen each evening as to the work that has been accomplished during the day. The following morning the four chairmen will meet at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and report the progress of the preceding day to Assistant Secretary Sanders, who has personal charge of this drive. As the drive progresses Mr. Sanders will lend assistance to the different bands of workers. In this way the daily progress of the drive will be known, and the results will be published daily in the columns of the Evening Press.

Mrs. Richardon's Challenge

An interesting side light has come up already in this membership drive. Mrs. Ella Richardson, who is heading the committee covering the northwestern district, has challenged the other captains to a competitive contest. Mrs. Margaret I. Biggs, who heads the team working in the southeastern section, is cooperating with Mrs. Richardson and the two propose that the other captains, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, head of the northeastern section committee, and Edward B. Ellias, who is handling the southwestern crowd of workers, join hands in a similar alliance and that at the close of the contest the losing combination give a picnic dinner to the winners.

Organizes for Work

Mrs. Richardson reported that she is having a meeting of her committee tonight at her home on North Brand boulevard, and that she will have similar committee meetings every night at 7 o'clock at her home throughout the drive. During the day she will be located at the Crofton Shoe Store, 105 North Brand boulevard, from 3 to 6 o'clock, to meet inquirers and to accept applications for membership.

Women Working Hard

The manner in which the ladies of these various teams are entering into this work of securing new members is simply wonderful. They have long had the boosting spirit in their souls and the fire of enthusiasm for the work of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in their hearts, and now that they have been afforded an opportunity to work they are going at their tasks in grand style.

"Just watch us travel," said one of the feminine workers today. "If we don't give the 'stronger sex' members on these committees some real competition in securing members during this drive it will certainly not be our fault."

May Extend Drive.

On account of Friday being Admission Day there is some talk of extending the contest for a day or so, providing the workers are not able to bring in the required number of new members in the time set.

In the meantime the workers are on the job. Every member of all of the committees who could possibly do so was out bright and early this morning. The various chairmen are assisting their committeemen in any way they possibly can. In addition to the general plans that have been adopted for all of the committees, each chairman and his or her committee have formulated an intensive plan of action, which each believes will bring excellent results.

BUSINESS REVIVAL INDICATED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Booming cotton prices were interpreted today by high Government officials to mean the real start of a business revival upon a permanent basis.

Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, and Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the War Finance corporation, joined today in optimistic forecasts of better business.

"In cotton, as in other products, we are getting back to the old law of supply and demand," said Governor Harding.

"The recent change in the demand for raw cotton and cotton goods is a fact of fundamental importance, with far-reaching importance to the whole country," Director Meyer said.

"If there is a cessation, for a brief time, in this pessimism over the country,' the Governor said, "we would have no depression. Fundamentally and basically, as shown by the figures of the Federal Reserve banks, this situation is going to work out all right."

COTTON GINS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The cotton ginned to September 1 from the crops of 1921 and 1920 was as follows, the census bureau announced today:

Total running bales, counting round as half bales, 481,788 and 351,689. Round bales included 36,208 and 17,451.

FARM CROPS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. — Farm crops of the United States, excluding forest, nursery and greenhouse products, had a total value of $14,755,358,407 in 1919, the Bureau of Census announced today. The corresponding value of crops in 1909 was $5,231,850,683, the 1919 figure representing an increase of 182 per cent in ten years.

NEW QUARTERS OF DR. HARROWER ABOUT READY

Since establishing his Glendale laboratory in July, 1918, Dr. Henry Harrower has so increased the business that the Harrower Laboratory has outgrown its present quarters on the second floor of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, corner of Glendale avenue and East Broadway, and it has become necessary for Dr. Harrower to have erected a building sufficiently large to house his organization. The building, which is a two-story brick located on East Broadway, is one of the finest buildings of its type in this city and will be ready for occupancy about September 20.

The new home of the Harrower Laboratory is absolutely fireproof and will furnish separate rooms for each department. On the first floor will be located the administrative offices, the library and the editorial department. On the second floor will be located the several departments necessary to carrying on the business of the laboratory.

Plan of Departments

Probably the most notable feature of the first floor, when the building is completed, will be the library. This is a large room in the southeast corner of the building, will be elegantly furnished and have a complete medical library with books treating on all of the various phases of the profession and will be open at all times for the accommodation of the doctors of Glendale. This room will also be headquarters for the Glendale Medical Club. Adjoining the library will be located the editorial department. This department employs six people who prepare all literature pertaining to the work done by Dr. Harrower.

Dr. Harrower's Office

Across the hall from the library Dr. Harrower will have his own private office with the office of his general manager opening off it. Adjoining the office of the general manager will be two rooms occupied by the assistant manager and two secretaries. Dr. Harrower's private secretaries will have an office across the hall from the room occupied by the general manager and adjoining a private consultation and examining room that will be used by Dr. Harrower.

A new feature that is being incorporated into the building is a cork and concrete ice box to supply ice water at all times to the various drinking fountains throughout the building.

Reception Room

The reception hall will be finished in quartered oak and will be furnished to receive visitors to the institution. A girl will be on duty in this hall at all times.

The entire west end of the first floor will be taken up by the mailing department. This department is one of the most important of the entire organization, sending out as it does over 100,000 pieces of mail matter weekly. Mr. Block, chief correspondent and his six assistants will have offices adjoining the mailing department.

This department also houses the addressograph and stencil making machine, the fireproof vaults and the filing cabinets. At the rear of the mailing department the shipping department is located. It is the prevailing idea that in a short time the shipping department will be turned into a postoffice as Dr. Harrower has already made application to Washington for permission to install a cancelling machine and carry a stock of stamps.

Second Floor

On the second floor will be located the bookkeeping department in a 32x43 foot room where 10 bookkeepers will be employed. The credit department will also be located near the bookkeeping department. Dr. J. E. Caldwell of Bradentown, Fla., who is on his way to this city to assist Dr. Harrower in his technical correspondence, will also have an office on the second floor.

Dr. Harrower has in his employ a man who reads seven different languages who will have his office where all foreign medical journals will be on file.

Not overlooking the comfort of the women employes of the laboratory Dr. Harrower is installing a ladies' rest room and kitchen on the second floor. A large assembly room is being provided on the second floor where Dr. Harrower will conduct a series of lectures during the winter.

At the rear of the administration building is the laboratory proper, where the mixing of the serums and other products is done. In this laboratory is a packing machine that packs and seals in hermitic packages 120,000 pills daily.

Altogether the new Harrower Laboratory is an insitution that Glendale should be and is proud of.

SALE OF EXHIBITS AT VALLEY FAIR IS ADVOCATED

The project first suggested by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery to utilize exhibits of food stuffs sent to the San Fernando Valley Fair by disposing of them at a sale table, the proceeds to go to the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse fund, is strongly indorsed by Mrs. A. M. Williams, one of the officers of the club who writes from Catalina as follows:

"A splendid plan has been evolved by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Glendale's clever chairman of the culinary department of the San Fernando Valley Fair, Sept. 19-24, whereby the clubhouse fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be greatly benefitted.

"To accomplish this it means 'a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together.' In plain words, it means Mrs. Montgomery must have the assistance of the Glendale women in geenral, and the Tuesday Afternoon club women in particular. All are at liberty to compete for prizes in this department, and we hope many will take advantage of the fair and 'tell the world' what cooks Glendale women are.

"It is well known after an article has been cut for inspection, what remains may be disposed of in any manner decided upon by the general committee.

"So Mrs. Montgomery asked that all the food stuffs coming from Glendale be turned over to her after the committee had passed upon them, and her request was granted.

"The plan is that these articles, fresh each day, and many others which she hopes will be donated outright, will be the foundation for a most delectable lunch which she and her committee of Glendale women will serve throughout the entire time, and will be sold for the benefit of the clubhouse fund.

Everything from the home kitchen in the way of bread, cakes, pies, cookies, doughnuts, French pastries, jams, jellies, canned fruits, etc., will be received in this department, and will be most acceptable for this undertaking. And the chamber of commerce will transport to the fair grounds any of these products that are brought to it for this purpose.

"Another most essential part to the success of this undertaking will be the assistance given it. Even though ever so ready and willing, no one can accomplish things alone; so Mrs. Montgomery needs volunteer helpers at this lunch counter, as well as the articles for sale, and will gladly arrange details as to time and special assistance with any one who will call Glendale 2126-W.

"As chairman of ways and means of the Tuesday Afternoon club, I heartily endorse Mrs. Montgomery's plan, and appeal to the women of Glendale to help bring about the success of the undertaking."

BASSO SOLOIST FOR PERSIAN GARDEN IS SELECTED

George Walker, who has been selected as the bass soloist in "The Persian Garden," to be given September 17 in an outdoor setting in Verdugo Woodlands under the auspices of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, is pronounced by those who know to be one of the finest bass singers in the United States and a vocalist of international reputation.

He has a repertoire of over 200 operas and was one of the leads in the Imperial Opera Company of Vienna. During the last two years of the war, he sang in London and Vienna, where the splendid quality of his voice was recognized.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

COUNCILMAN DAVIS WINS COMPROMISE ON BROADWAY

Councilman S. A. Davis, as chairman of public works, has actively interested himself in the improvement of West Broadway from Pacific avenue to San Fernando road, and to that end was instrumental in the calling of a meeting of interested property owners last night at the home of George Peters, Jr., 634 West Broadway.

About 25 persons enthusiastically interested in the project were present, and besides Councilman Davis the city government was represented by City Manager W. H. Reeves and City Engineer Hill.

A unanimous sentiment in favor of the paving of that unimproved portion of Broadway was expressed and also a desire to have the street straightened and widened to 60 feet.

To that end a deed quit-claiming to the city all property 30 feet north of the center line of the street and 30 feet south of the center line is being circulated and signed by practically all owners of abutting property in that section of the thoroughfare. In some instances the deed will call for two feet of frontage and in a few extreme cases for 10 feet, but the one instrument will insure the straightening and unifying of the entire roadway to be improved.

The plan also calls for a slight widening of the mouth of Broadway where it meets San Fernando at an acute angle.

Jesse Stine, William H. Verity, William Hyatt, William MacMullin and others present who own frontage are ready to push the project and Councilman Davis is very optimistic over the prospect. He says if he can be instrumental in accomplishing it, he will feel that his service for the city thus far has not been in vain, because the opening and improving of West Broadway has so long been discussed and so often been on the point of being realized only to be abandoned. Now he thinks it is a go.

WEDNESDAY CLUB ENTERTAINED

Members of the Wednesday Afternoon Club were delightfully entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. Charles Sanders, 1320 North Brand. A diversion in the usual cafeteria luncheon was afforded by a demonstration of a steam pressure cooker made by Mr. Curry, which was a tremendous success and greatly interested the ladies who partook of the pot roast, potatoes and other articles prepared in the cooker.

Following the luncheon a pleasant social afternoon was spent by the ladies over their needlework, those present being: Mesdames J. F. Hearnshaw, Frank Hester, Alfred Muhleman, William A. Gibson, H. Lee Clotworthy, William A. Nash, Julia Perkins, Charles Glover, Charles Freshman of Los Angeles, H. A. Reed of Long Beach, Miss Clara Ringert of Glendale, and Mrs. George E. Roach.

Do You Know?

I AM IN GLENDALE for Glendale and the people of Glendale! It is my desire to offer them the finest quality goods at less than city prices! Due to my twenty years experience in both wholesale and retail grocery lines in New York and New Jersey, and having run as many as five stores at one time, I am thoroughly familar with the market—and know how to buy at the closest prices!

I believe that Glendale is a growing community, a city that is not "coming," but has "arrived"! I have become a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, bought a home in "The City of Homes," and have come with my family to reside here!

AMERICAN WOMEN SEE RUSSIAN STARVATION

Special Representatives of International News Service Report From Astrakhan and Moscow About Conditions as They Found Them in Famine Zone

By BESSIE BEATTY
(Special Corresopndence of the International News Service. Copyright, 1921, by the I. N. S.)

ASTRAKHAN, Russia, by courier, wireless and cable, via Moscow, Berlin and London, Sept. 8.—Here on the edege of the Caspian sea I have come to the end of the great Russian famine area on the Volga. I am beyond the sound of the heart-rending plea of starving women for bread and beyond the sight of children whom hunger has squeezed and twisted and bloated until they are distorted caricatures of flesh and bones.

I left Moscow with the peasant president, M. Kalinin, on the first special train into the famine country. We traveled by railroad, steamer and automobile.

In the towns and villages, communes and children's homes we have seen what the war, the blockade, the revolution and, worst of all, the drought have done to the people of this great granary of the Russians.

In the children's homes the abandoned babies were so weak and sick when brought in that 300 out of 480 died.

Driving across the plains I met long lines of hungry people trekking from the villages with all their possessions in boxes and bales.

One large group encamped on the plain outside of a town was a third of an entire village's population. Their peasant spokesman told me a third had already gone to Siberia and would send back word about conditions there.

When we were leaving Samara we saw a man and a woman in rags die on the beach at the foot of our gangplank. They had fought their way in a small boat to the edge of the town, bringing four children with them. The parents gave up the fight for their own lives only when help for the children was in sight.

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG
Special Correspondent of the International News Service

EN ROUTE FROM MOSCOW to the Samara famine area, Sept. 8.—Before leaving Moscow, I had an exclusive interview with Miss Margaret Thorpe of the American Society of Friends (Quakers) who had just returned from the Samara district after an investigation of conditions there.

"I saw four dead children carried through the streets by children of 10 to 12 years of age," she told me. "My first sight as I opened a railroad station door was a dead child lying in a corner.

"In one government station, 42 of the 429 child inmates died in one week.

"I saw children hunting through garbage like dogs.

"Others dropped against the wall, exhausted with swollen stomachs and their eyes gazing vacantly. They were awaiting death indifferently; only occasionally a moan was heard.

"Mothers say they hope the cholera will kill their children quick and thus save them from the slow death by starvation.

"Soap, medicines and food are the chief needs in the crisis, which is sure to become general throughout Europe if relief on a large scale does not come quickly."

DANCE AND CARD PLAY

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tuohy will be hosts Saturday night at their pleasant home, 414 East Lomita avenue, at a dance and card party for the benefit of the Holy Family Catholic Church fund. A warm invitation to all members of the Church and their friends is being extended by this hospitable couple.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Women's Missionary Society of the Central Christian Church, met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Effie Crawford of 301 North Cedar street, with an excellent attendance, which included a few neighbors of the hostess.

Devotional exercises were led by Mrs. J. E. Peters. Mrs. Eva Hutton made an excellent talk about work among the mountaineers of Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Mrs. E. H. Learned followed with an accoun t of work in progress among the negro residents of Indianapolis, Indiana. Mrs. Fred Pigg sang beautifully a special arrangement of the old negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess. Several new members were accepted, bringing the roll to 110.

CLUB DIRECTORS MEET

Members of the board of directors of the Tuesday Afternoon club held their first official fall meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles H. Hutchinson, on North Orange street. Present besides the hostess were Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, Mrs. Mabel Rudy, Mrs. A. M. Hunt, Mrs. E. W. Kinney, Mrs. O. E. Von Oven, Mrs. Andrew Findlay and Miss Eva Daniels.

Mrs. Ocker reported concerning the progress of the year-book, and several matters of business which have accumulated during the summer were disposed of.

Plans for the Persian Garden production to be given in Verdugo Woodlands under the auspices of the Music Section as a clubhouse benefit, were outlined, and there was desultory discussion relative to the building of a clubhouse, but no action taken.

BRITISH FLAG WILL FLY OVER WORLD'S LARGEST VESSEL

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The largest vessel in the world, being finished by German workers at Hamburg, will be delivered in the Spring to the International Mercantile Marine, under the tonnage reparation clause of the Peace Treaty, and operated by the White Star line. The huge vessel, of 56,000 tons, will be known as the Majestic and will house 5,200 persons when booked full for passage. Of this number 4,100 would be passengers, 1,600 of them first and second class.

The great ship will be 2,000 tons larger than the Leviathan, the largest ship now afloat, but not in use. The Leviathan is rusting away in New York harbor. It is the property of the U. S. Shipping Board. The ship would have to be reconditioned for use.

The Magestic will be the palace of the seas, plying the Atlantic between New York and Southampton. The drydock used to build the vessel will be towed from Hamburg to Southampton and there established for use when the vessel needs repairs.

Four times around the promenade deck of the Magestic is one mile. The ship will have 1,245 staterooms. Suites run from one room, with private bath, to regular apartments, with several bedrooms, parlor, sun porch and whatever else the wealthy passenger may fancy.

Huge Public Rooms

The public rooms on the Magestic are immense. The lounge has a ceiling twenty-six feet high, and its floor dimensions are 76 by 54 feet, while the main dining room is 117 by 98 feet, with a 31-foot ceiling. There is an unbroken view in these two rooms, which adjoin, of 250 feet.

The Magestic's power installation is the largest ever fitted on a passenger ship. There are four turbines for speed ahead and four reverse turbines; one turbine weighs 350 tons. A driving power of 62,000 horsepower is indicated. The vessel likely will travel at from 23 knots, or more than 26 statute miles an hour.

SNEEZELESS LAND IS LOCATED IN DAKOTA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—A-t-t-e-n-ker-choo! Wheezes and heavy sneezes! List to a tale of the promised land where they sneeze not, neither do they wheeze.

This land is the Land of Dacotah, just west by north of the land of Minnehaha, she who gave the laugh to her old papah. This sneezeless land, the American Forestry Magazine says, is the Black Hills country in South Dakota, modern for Dacotah, where the late T. Roosevelt and Seth Bullock with their marksmanship made the Indians jealous.

The sneeze season begins about the time the apples begin to fall, the lowing herds are fed the pumpkin and the boys get off in a corner of the feace and try to smoke corn silk.

The scientific men do not give the exact reason why the sneeze power is helpless in the Black Hills that Theodore Roosevelt loved. It is the rare air, of which there is a lot. Perhaps it is the wind cave near Hot Springs, out of which rushes cold air that gives immediate relief to those pestered with colds, hay fever and asthma. The cave is a Government institution.

COMBINE FORMED TO BOOM USE OF COPPER

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Formation of the Copper and Brass Research Association, an unincorporated, voluntary organization of the copper, brass and copper alloy interests, is announced by its president, R. L. Agassiz, president of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company.

The purpose of the association in its by-laws is to stimulate by cooperative effort the use of copper, brass and copper alloy products.

Membership in the association is open to producers of copper sold here or selling agents of copper in the United States, to fabricators of copper, brass and copper products generally in the United States and Dominion of Canada, and to others directly engaged in or connected with the copper and brass industries.

CHILDLESS MAN ENDS LIFE

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Heinrich Haggenmacher, a multi-millionaire, 86 years of age, who owned numerous factories, mills, breweries and restaurants throughout the country, has committed suicide.

In a letter which was found on his office desk, Haggenmacher, who was a childless widower, stated that his lonely life had become unbearable.

HEART IS ON WRONG SIDE

BERLIN, Sept. 8.— An extraordinary discovery was made by a surgeon at the Pankhow Hospital, near Berlin, when operating on a patient for appendicitis. When the patient was cut open it was found that his heart was on the right side of the body and the appendix on the left.

FATE OF SHIP BOARD HANGING IN BALANCE

By T. N. SANDIFER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Whether the United States flag flies over the largest merchant marine in the world, as it once flew over the clipper ship fleets of American commerce, depends on the development of the present Shipping Board's program within the next few months.

Chairman Albert D. Lasker, of the new board, has stated that it will take a full year to determine definitely the result of the present program.

The preliminary steps in the program have already been undertaken. They include:

First. A general clean-up of incomplete contracts.

Second. A thorough survey of the entire Shipping Board, to determine just where the organization stands in a business way.

Business Methods Needed

Third. To put the board on the same basis as a successful business.

The general goal toward which these steps are directed is a full-fledged American merchant marine, second to none.

Chairman Lasker has stated that his administration has inherited chaos. They have inherited an organization, in which, owing to war conditions, accounts with the business clients are badly scrambled, a large amount of surplus material is on hand, some of it unsalable, under present conditions, and, finally, with the second largest tonnage in the world on their hands, they are operating at a loss to the Government.

The first thing the present organization has undertaken has been to clean up, that is, settle long-standing accounts as rapidly as they can be put in shape, clear away accumulated red tape, adjust the organization to present conditions, and in general start with as clean a slate as possible. This is still going on, and Chairman Lasker expects months to elapse before most of the work is done.

In line with this clean-up, the organization is being thoroughly overhauled and surveyed. This is to determine what assets and liabilities the present board has, a thing which the chairman states has never been done. He states that an enormous amount of work is involved in this alone.

Working Order Needed

The third step, putting the firm in working order, involves all these things and is the immediate goal.

The fundamental thing being undertaken now is to stop the loss to the Government through the board's operation. This is stated to be the keynote to the entire undertaking.

This loss has been laid by the board officials to the present system of operating Shipping Board vessels, known as Managing Operators' Agreement No. 4. Under this agreement operators are practically guaranteed 5 per cent of the ships' earnings, although the losses in operating might in some case exceed by thousands of dollars the total income. This is held to be the primary cause of all the present trouble.

Accordingly the first definite plank in the new board's platform has been to agree unanimously that this system must be abolished. This feature of the permanent policy is the only one fully decided as yet, and until it is done it is stated that lesser matters must wait.

To Stop Losses

The board, of course, has determined on other steps besides abrogating the present operating agreements, but they are all involved under the general head of stopping loss to the Government.

Negotiations are under way whereby all surplus material will be disposed of, and some of this work is now under way, including the sale of the wooden ships.

When all this is done the present board hopes they will have the following.

A business organization with all accounts settled or accounted for, liabilities paid and in modern form generally; all old stock off its shelves, and everything in it producing.

And, first of all, a full-grown American merchant fleet, manned by Americans, sailing every trade route and bringing in its share of the revenue derived from carrying the goods of all countries in successful competition with its rivals at sea.

CHORUS MAIDS ARE SCARCE ARTICLE SAYS DIRECTOR

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The American bison.

The free lunch.

And now—the chorus girl?

There is a rumor, alarming in tired business circles, that our little cross-footlight playmates are vanishing from the Great White Way.

Chorus girls, says a prominent Broadway director, are disappearing by the thousands. They are going back to home and mother—and a square meal.

Hard times hit the show girl this year, like everyone else, only harder. Many, seasoned to Summer slumps, stuck it out through the hot weather.

But many others chucked it altogether and got out the old "Learn to Write Shorthand by Mail" booklet and practised picking pieces on an office piano.

Landon West, director, who hires lots of chorus girls in the course of a Fall's work, says this is no press agent's yarn.

It's a fact, he says, that many of the regular chorus girls got a taste of hunger this Summer and have gone back to the farm, where there is plenty to eat. They figure that a fatted calf in the hand is worth two silk-clad ones in the "sticks," as far as an empty stomach is concerned.

There's a shortage this Fall as a result, not of girls who want to be in the chorus, but of girls who have the looks and the voice and the "pep" and the steps and, yes, the legs to qualify.

TRUNK EXPLODES; HOME BREW

(By International News Service)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—"Check my trunk for Lockport, N. Y. its weight is under the limit." So saying, the hasty traveller dropped a local expressman's check into the hands of the baggage master. The latter found the trunk. It weighed twice the "excess limit." A helper was called to move the trunk onto a truck.

Crash! The trunk slipped with a thud from their strong hands. A soapy substance oozed out of the trunk. A "drumfire" was heard within. It was the "popping" of home brew.

The trunk was "checked," but after the "oozing" ceased the weight had fallen below the "excess limit."

TOY BALLOONS TAKE BOY ON THRILLING JOURNEY

(By International News Service)

NILES, Ohio, Sept. 8.—An unexpected trip in the air thrilled a four-year-old lad and spectators alike at a carnival here.

When a street vender fastened a bunch of toy balloons to the forty-pound youngster's arm a strong gust of wind raised the child off his feet, carrying him some distance over the carnival grounds. Spectators, who followed the lad, caught him and removed the balloons.

BURBANK WILL USE RADIUM ORE AS AID TO NATURE

(By International News Service)

MONTROSE, Colo., Sept. 8.—Radium ore may become one of the leading fertilizers for trees and plants as a result of experiments being made from the ore mined in this region.

Luther Burbank, the California "plant wizard," will use radium ore in experiments to develop new plants, according to Henry A. Adrian, associate of Burbank, who recently investigated the value of radium ore in aiding nature.

Experiments made here, it is declared, indicate that the use of radium ore around the roots of newly-planted trees has resulted in wonderfully rapid growth of poplars. Experiments with sweet peas and other plants and flowers show, it is said, that the use of radium ore results in much faster growth and more luxurious bloom than those not treated with the radium ore.

The belief is expressed here that radium action has the same effect upon plant as upon human life, stimulating the healthy tissues, so that they develop faster and overcome any tendency to become diseased, gradually overpowering the weakness of the diseased tissues surrounding them.

Radium ore, it is declared, can be sold profitably at $100 per ton, and, as only a fraction of a pound is necessary for the fertilization of a tree, it is believed that ore can be readily marketed for fertilizing purposes.

NAKED PATAGONIANS WANT STRAW HATS IN ZERO LAND

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—In a sheltered bay on the bleak shoreline of the Straits of Magellan members of a colony of naked Patagonians are wearing American straw hats with the temperature hovering below the freezing point, according to Captain K. A. Ahlin, of the freighter West Nots, in port here with a cargo of coffee and hides from South American ports.

It was when the steamer stopped recently in a bay on the north shore of the Straits of Magellan for favorable weather conditions that a colony of the naked Patagonians came to the ship in dugouts, Captain Ahlin stated. Despite the chill air and snow on the ground, he said, men, women and children hadn't a stitch of apparel on them, but didn't seem to mind the weather. One woman sat in a boat half full of water and nursed two babies in the freezing atmosphere just as if they were comfortably clothed.

Gifts of clothing were thrown to the natives, but these were spurned. All the visitors seemed to want was tobacco. Finally the captain and members of the crew dug up some straw hats and tossed them overboard. These were eagerly grabbed, and when the steamer left the natives headed back to shore garbed in straw hats.

U. S. MAY STOP SALE OF HAWAIIAN BOOZE

(By International News Service)

HONOLULU, Territory of Hawaii, Sept. 8.—Because of the alarming increase of the illicit liquor traffic in Hawaii, particularly among men of the army and navy, and because of the poisonous nature of much of the liquor peddled, Governor Wallace R. Farrington has declared in favor of joining forces with the millitary authorities in an attempt to suppress the traffic.

He favors an educational campaign to show the men how paralysis, blindness, insanity and even death result from the use of bootleg "okolehao," the native liquor.

WATER WITH KICK IS PUZZLE FOR EVEN BREW EXPERTS

(By International News Service)

HOLLISTER, Mo., Sept. 8—An artesian well which furnishes water with sufficient "kick" to explode and shatter jugs and bottles is puzzling even "home brew" experts here.

Recently a five-gallon jug, presumably filled with this water, blew up while awaiting shipment at the railroad station. The explosion burst the strong container into bits and caused a panic among waiting passengers.

It's nothing unusual hereabouts to have new "moonshine" or home brew go off with a bang, but when ordinary mineral water, drawn from the earth, takes to exploding it naturally makes Hollister folks wonder of their town is built over a reservoir of liquid TNT.

Tourists are now afraid to drink the "charged" water, which is known to have health-giving curative properties.

Expert safe crackers might do well to look into the properties of this new explosive, which is cheaper than nitroglycerine though perhaps more dangerous to handle.

Gossip has it that the owners of the well will be asked to take out licenses to handle explosives. Any sort of a jug seen on the depot platform is now causing people to detour to the other side of the street.

WAR DECLARED ON MOTOR CAR THIEVES

(By International News Service)

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 8.—Twenty-five business men have organized here to start an offensive on motor-car thieves. So many automobile thefts have been reported in recent weeks that only one-third of the insurance companies operating in this city will now insure motor cars. The members of the new organization are pledged to answer an alarm at any time, day or night, and will be deputized to make arrests.

BOY COBBLERS HELP TO REDUCE EXPENSES

(By International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Spt. 8.—Small boys from a congested district here are learning to help reduce living expenses. At Summer school they are becoming expert cobblers under tutelage of Miss Julia Murray. A majority of the youths in the daily "cobblers' class are of foreign parentage. They learn their trade by repairing shoes of their families.

"PRAYERS" IN CHURCH WERE SAID FOR DICE

(By International News Service)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 8—Prayerful entreaties, which lacked a spiritual flavor, floating from the Sunday School of the Howard Methodist Episcopal Church here, caused Patrolman O. J. Cox to investigate.

He found William J. Sadler, Jr., and Harry Hendrickson, Jr., sons of prominent members of the congregation, intent on shooting craps. There was thirty-five cents in the game. In the Juvenile Court Judge Milliken fined the youths $5 each and ordered that they earn the money.

WHY GOLF?

Someone has asked why golf is not as great a pastime in California as it is in the East. Many good-sized municipalities are to be found in this state which boast advantages and luxuries galore, but which have no golf courses.

The most logical reason is the almost constant out-of-door life of the people, motoring and hiking, when they have a few hours or a few days to spare.

The average Californian wants to get somewhere, to have a more definite goal than a tee, to be able to say that he went so many miles in so long a time without the water boiling in his radiator; that he caught so many fish, or shot so many rabbits; that he hiked to the top of this peak or that.

He provides golf links, of course, for the pleasure of Eastern visitors or to furnish an arena for champions, and occasionally he makes the round to show that he can do it, but, in general, it is too tame an activity for his sporting blood.

During the last six years of Glendale's greatest growth there has been no urgent demand for golf links here. The present outlook does not indicate that there ever will be such a demand except in connection with outlying country clubs, which are not closely allied with the life of the city.

FARMERS HOLD BACK

There is a lurking notion that the thing which is now holding back the grain markets is the tendency of the farmer to market his grain post-haste. Last year showed just the reverse of this situation, when the farmer held off for higher prices and would not go near the market. We all remember the result of his misjudgment.

It is beginning to look as if the farmer is wrong again this year. In his feverish haste to market his wheat the farmer is only laying the foundation for very high price levels as the grain passes into the hands of shippers and elevator combines. The latter can afford to hold on for the higher prices which will undoubtedly prevail this winter, due to the general grain shortage everywhere. The farmers will not get their share of the higher price if they keep up their present shipping mania, and the shippers will walk away with more than is rightfully coming to them.

THRESHING WHEAT

The threshing of winter wheat in Southern and Western states is going on at a rapid clip and will soon be completed, according to advices from the department of agriculture. The general yield is reported rather light and below average quality. The spring wheat crop is showing up uneven, both in yield and quality. The corn crop has suffered permanent harm by the continued drought and heat, and there is considerable deterioration. The yield and quality of the oats crop is reported below average, and the threshing is not up to capacity.

The latest government reports indicate a decrease of about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat from the stock of a year ago, or a grand estimated total production for this year of about 821,710,000 bushels.

Shortages are reported from Europe, the Argentine and Canada. Surely, we are in for higher prices.

COTTON KING AGAIN

Before another cotton crop is made the nations of the world will be in the throes of a serious cotton shortage. Crop experts differ on many issues, but they seem to be pretty well agreed on this point as a body.

We are doubtless facing an advancing cotton market for months to come. The South is owning up to the shortest crop in years. So are other cotton-growing countries all over the world. Nowhere is there a surplus crop reported.

Many factors have aided to precipitate the shortage. The boll weevil, of course. The severely curtailed acreage planted. The past two months' steady deterioration of the present crop. The unmarketable condition of a great deal of carry-over crop. These are principal causes of the shortage.

86 Year Old Woman Comments On Styles

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—"Lawsy, me. I suppose there'll always be fool styles. There always were. When I was a girl people laughed at the hoop skirts and made jokes about 'em, but we wore them just the same."

Thus Mrs. Mary J. Daugherty celebrated her 86th birthday at her home on Lexington avenue the other day, looked back across the years and voiced her views of what women wore in the days when she was a slip of a girl in Ashland County, Ohio, and what they wear—or fail to wear today.

Mrs. Daugherty won a beauty contest in her youth and her face still exhibits traces of that beauty despite the burden of the years which, however, has touched her lightly. She still does a day's housework without becoming exhausted.

Has Sense of Humor

Her sense of humor, always keen, so friends say, has not left her and she looks upon the styles of today with a tolerant eye, although all do not meet her approval.

"The girl of today is all right," she said, "but she ought to be taught that no gentlewoman goes to extremes. The girl who has good taste wears skirts that are neither too long nor too short. They may vary their headdress to suit their faces, but they shouldn't make themselves conspicuous or ridiculous."

She doesn't like French heels, however, nor does the present fashion of dressing hair appeal to her.

"I wonder how many of those stilt-heeled girls will be able to do a day's work when they are 86?" she queried.

Sprightly and active, Mrs. Daugherty rejoices that she has been permitted to live to see so many changes.

I almost feel as if I had lived in two different planets when I compare the present day with my girlhood," she said.

EARLY FALL IS FORECAST

NEW PLAN LAUNCHED TO UNTANGLE MEXICO

By LOUIS P. KIRBY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—Outside of President Harding and Secretary of States Hughes, the American most talked about in Mexico today is Elmer Dover, of Tacoma, Washington. Mr. Dover, who came to Mexico City with a group of Pacific Coast bankers and, while here, held numerous conferences with President Obregon, is now in Washington, where he is working to bring about an agreement between the United States and Mexico. If he is successful and the United States government recognize the Obregon government it is likely that Mr. Dover will be the next American Minister to Mexico.

There have been no outward indications that Mr. Dover is making progress, but Mexican officials and American business men in Mexico have not given up hope.

Mr. Dover was active in President Harding's campaign. Formerly he lived in Ohio and at one time was secretary of the Republican National Committee. When he departed for Washington he left behind high hopes that, owing to his close relationship with Republican officials, he might be able to induce Secretary Hughes to change his severe attitude toward Mexico.

There is little doubt that most of the Americans here are eager for American recognition. Some, having businesses which would improve with recognition of concessions from the Mexican Government, favor immediate, unconditional recognition. Others would be satisfied if the United States modified its attitude toward Mexico. They talked with Mr. Dover while he was here and impressed their views upon him.

Whether Mr. Dover carried any proposals to Washington with him is not known, but Mexican officials emphasized to him their desire for recognition before any treaty negotiations were undertaken.

Mexicans have been led to believe that propaganda for recognition is making much progress with the public in the United States.

Hope Terms Accepted

It must be admitted that there are numerous Mexicans who wish to see the State Department's terms accepted by the Obregon Government. These Mexicans are property owners who look forward to the day when radicalism will be eradicated from the Mexican Constitution and statute books. Curiously enough the ranks of substantial property owners are being recruited from the new element thrown into high places by the revolution. Many of these "new men" are rapidly growing rich.

Some have become large property owners, but have confined their purchases to city real estate. Only a few have ventured to become owners of large landed estates, because for ten years the big land owners in Mexico have been the chief target of attack.

What the newly rich dread most is collection by State governments in the form of borrowing and accommodation or advance payments of taxes. Men who have sold mines or other valuable property have shrunk from publicity, fearing a quiet but firm request from the State Government for "accommodation."

Some Provinces Upset

Much has been done in the past year to restore order and public confidence, but Yucatan and some of the other States are still upset, and there are occasional clashes in some of the northern States—the most orderly in the Republic.

In Yucatan it is reported that thousands are facing starvation because of depression caused by the intense activity of Communists and Socialists. Jose Poch, of the Labor Department, reported to President Obregon that 30,000 Indians and their families are in want in Yucatan because work cannot be found. Campeche, the neighboring State, shares in this depression, caused by militant agitators.

FIGHT FOR TARIFF ON CITRUS PRODUCTS IS BEING MADE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Both representatives in Congress from Los Angeles have declared without qualification for a higher tariff on citrus products.

"I am with the California growers in their fight to secure proper tariff protection for citrus by-products till the last gun is fired," declared Representative Lineberger, in an interview today.

"Tariff protection is vital to California and I understand the seriousness of the situation which she is facing," continued Mr. Lineberger. "I am a firm believer in protection for everything produced in the United States sufficient to equalize the cost of production in this country, as against goods produced by cheap foreign labor," said Mr. Lineberger.

State Needs Protection

"California cannot live without tariff protection. Her products have to meet competition from southern Europe and the Orient, where labor is cheaper than in any other part of the world, and living conditions in California are probably on as high a plane as any place on the globe; the difference is vast and protection is a vital issue with California. I have done, and shall continue to do, everything that is humanly possible to help California secure the tariff duties which she so badly needs," declared Mr. Lineberger.

"I believe the California citrus producers should have the increased tariff protection for which they are asking," said Representative Henry Z. Osborne, of California, today.

"The entire California delegation in the House as well as Senators Johnson and Shortridge are doing all in their power to aid the growers in their efforts to secure higher duties on both walnuts and citrus by-products," Mr. Osborne continued.

Cheap Labor Competition

"California industries are brought into competition with southern Europe and the Orient, where labor is so cheap as to be almost a negligible factor. It is a self-evident fact that labor cannot be procured in California at the figure paid in Italy and China, and for this reason it is manifestly impossible for the California producer to meet foreign competition on anything like an equal basis, unless he is accorded the protection of reasonable tariff duties," Congressman Osborne said.

Through the effective influence of Senator Hiram Johnson, the representatives of the California Citrus League were enabled to secure an early and full hearing before the Senate Finance Committee to present their plea for increased duties on citrus products.

By-Products Protection

The manufacture of chemical products from citrus fruits is a new industry in the United States and protective duties are imperative if it is to continue to grow and develop along normal lines. The duties asked by the citrus growers are entirely in accord with the long established Republican policy of protection through the tariff for infant industries.

The effective salvage of unsalable fruit through this manufacture of by-products is a necessary factor in the stabilization of the citrus industry. All the cull and lower grade fruit must be harvested and sorted the same as the higher grades and the entire expense involved in this handling is a loss to the grower unless it can be converted into a product which will sell at a price which will cover the cost of manufacture and give a substantial return to the grower.

Citric Acid Trade

California factories can now supply one-third of the citric acid consumed in the United States and this output will be greatly increased if proper tariff protection is afforded. The rapid expansion of fresh lemon production, which already exceeds normal domestic consumption, will provide a constantly increased amount of fruit, which must be salvaged by the products factories.

The prevailing wage scale of Italy, America's principal competitor, is four times less than the American scale, so that the impossibility of competing with cheap foreign labor can readily be seen.

WOLVERINES CALLED TO BIG L. A. REUNION

All who ever lived in Michigan are called to meet under the auspices of the Michigan Association of Southern California for a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, September 17, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors, even with 10,000 present.

There will be a brief program, opening about 2 o'clock, but the main purpose will be to have a good time.

We want to see our Michigan folks from all sections of Southern California. Bring your baskets well filled and share with friends. Coffee will be served free to all who buy silk souvenir badges. Each one who learns of this picnic is asked to pass the word along.—Reunion Committee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Two weather-beaten stars of the old Pittsburg crew that annexed the last championship won by the Smoky City are whetting up their chops for a share of one more world's series melon.

George Gibson, now manager of the Buccos, and Babe Adams, who has defied time and tide and is still capable of holding his own on the mound with some of the best pitchers in the majors today, are the lone "wolves" of the old pack.

Here was a battery, boys, a real battery. And it was Adams' great pitching and the heady catching and indomitable sirpit of "Mooney" Gibson that enabled Fred Clark's team to take the measure of the Detroit Tigers eleven years ago.

Who would have guessed, in 1909 that these two stalwart players would have their shoulders to the wheel, helping Pittsburgh win the 1921 pennant? No one would have dreamed it. Yet here they are, the guiding spirits of the fast-going Buccaneers, two land-marks of the game whose records are a credit to the pastime and whose deeds on the diamond will be sung by Pittsburgh fans for fifty years to come.

How They Lined Up in Days of 1909

The team-mates they once fought side by side with have passed from the game. Let us take a look at the Pirate champions of 1909. They lined up as follows:

Abstein, 1b.; Miller, 2b.; Byrne, 3b.; Leach, 3b. o.f.; Wagner, ss.; Clarke, o.f.; Hyatt, o.f.; Wilson, o.f.; Gibson, c.; Adams, p.; Camnitz, p.; Willis, p.; Maddox, p.; Leifield, p.; Phillips, p., and O'Connor and Abbatichio, utility.

Six years previous to the heyday of the above team the Pirates of 1903 copped the National League pennant and battled the Bostons in the Fall classic. The team boasted the following players:

Bransfield, 1b.; Richey, 2b.; Leach, 3b.; Wagner, ss.; Clarke, o.f.; Beaumont, o.f.; Sebring, o.f.; Phelps, c.; Smith, c; Phillipe, p; Leever, p; Vail, p.; Kennedy, p., and Thompson, p.

Today the Pirates represent a much made-over team with a combination of youngsters and seasoned veterans, some of whom have seen service on several other major league clubs. Wagner, the great flying Dutchman has been gone several seasons. In his place Rabbit Maranville, the pepper-box from the Boston Braves, who has helped Gibby and the Babe make a winner of the club. Then there is Whitted, Dave Robinson and Cutshaw, all of whom have worn other uniforms and all of whom are doing their bit for the Pirates this year. Pittsburgh may well be proud of her team. It is a game and brainy outfit and it has earned the enviable position it holds in the baseball stage. It is a team that never entertains the possibility of deafeat and is never beaten until the last man is out.

BONES IN CAVE TELL PRE-HISTORIC SECRET

(By International News Service)

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 8.—Practically the entire skeleton of a buffalo and a fragment of the lower half of a human jaw have been discovered on the farm of Brack Smith, eight miles from Lexington, on the Frankfort Pike. The bones were found in a small cave by Drs. A. M. Miller and W. D. Funkheuser, of the University of Kentucky.

Before making their find they travelled thirty or forty feet through a small underground passage, which gave no room for further excavation work.

Both scientists assert that the cave showed no signs of having been entered by man and that, in their opinion, the bones antedate the discovery of America.

Dr. Miller has recently returned from Grayson County, where he found an ancient rock-house, containing remains of Indians and a stone mortar for grinding corn.

TRY THIS SYSTEM TO RE-EQUIP YOUR CAR

AKRON, Sept. 8.—Here is a new method—sucessful, but rather tedious—for obtaining a new auto.

One evening recently an auto hit one driven by R. B. Myers, charity worker. Myers' gas tank was smashed and the owner of the other car bought Myers a new one.

Another auto a few days afterward smashed one of the wheels on Myers' machine. A new wheel was purchased for Mr. Myers by the owner of the other auto.

During another collision the windshield on his car was damaged, and Mr. Myers was presented with a new one.

"I am hoping someone bumps into my radiator and musses up my auto top. Then I will have almost a new car," said Mr. Myers.

CHUMS GO CAMPING

Lucian Bulette, 467 Ivy, and his chum, Jack Leonard, corner Broadway and Pacific avenue, went camping Monday in the good old-fashioned way. Packing blankets and grub on the faithful family nags, they mounted the steeds and wended their way to the wilds of the Arroyo Seco, intending to live off the country and spread their blankets under the trees when night fell. They expect to return Saturday.

Led by the fancy kid glove which has had such success, the fabric glove has begun to be decorated in many ways.

BANKER DENIES JAPS ARE SEEKING WAR WITH AMERICA

(By International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 8.—"I am surprised that there is any serious talk of a conflict between America and Japan. Nippon is hardly in a condition to finance a war, and there are certainly no indications in that country of preparations or movement 'or any trouble," said Morris Adler, local financier, who has just returned from a ten weeks' tour of the Sunrise Kingdom.

"Japan is giving much thought to developing her manufacturing industries and general business. There is plenty of money in circulation, and I was told that the banks carried a considerable balance. The merchants, however, complained some of depreciation of merchandise.

"The country could hardly raise money for a war at this time. Europe is impoverished and, so, could not advance any. As we know, money is a vital factor when a country embarks with the war god.

"I heard much talk of Japan's withdrawing her troops from Siberia; but this, of course, was not official.

Mr. Adler visited Yokohama, Tokio and Kyota, in Japan, and several larger cities of China. So far as could be observed, feeling over the country is not hostile to Americans, as has been reported, he said.

SEA CAPTAINS TELL OF NEW CURRENT IN PACIFIC

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—Did a new ocean current, driving in from mid-ocean, carry the steamships Alaska and San Jose against the Pacific Coast rocks in two recent shipping disasters in Pacific waters.

Startling theories to this effect have been expressed here by two experienced and old-time sea captains. One, Captain P. L Abrahamson, considered the world's veteran sailor, has captained ships in the Pacific Ocean for 45 years.

During his entire 73 years of life on the sea the captain, who is 81, has steered his vessels through, across and around many of the great currents of the world's largest bodies of water.

In his belief, a new current has set in from mid-ocean and is driving against the Pacific Coast, and when those in charge of the San Jose and the Alaska thought they were a sufficient distance from the shore to be safe they were correct, but when this new current struck them, the ships were, without their knowledge, carried against the shore.

The same opinion was expressed by Captain Irvine Hanson, in charge of the Artigas, which has been loading at the local harbor.

The famous Japanese current, circulating the cold waters of the Bering Sea from the north, has changed direction, the two captains declared.

Increasing cold weather during a score of years along the Southern California coast has been caused by the fact that the Japanese current, instead of turning into mid-ocean off San Francisco, has gradually continued farther south until it extends the entire length of California before turning westward.

NEWS OF THE WORLD TOLD IN PICTURES FOR PRESS READERS

"Alice in Wonderland" Is Called Paranoiac By Psychoanalyst

At the top, in the centre, Alice and her pals are shown holding a little disarmament conference of their ow n. This illustrates the good will that prevails between children and animals. Below Alice is shown with the rabbit. Alice, in a strange world, grows very large. Paranoiacs thus assure th emselves of safety by trying to be big.

By MARGERY REX
Written for the International News Service

Bang goes another cherished idol!

Poor Alice was but a paranoiac. The well-known Alice, whose wild career in Wonderland has been read over and over by many children as well as by their nonsense-loving parents, has been put under the microscope of science and exposed for what she is, one of the maddest of literary dreams.

We have Andre Tridon's word for it. He is the chief protagonist of Freud in America. And Freud, you will recall, is that Viennese gentleman of science whose discoveries about dreams have made us spin around more madly than any Viennese valse ever could.

Lewis Carroll jotted down his dream of Alice in Wonderland long before the days of psychoanalysts such as Andre Tridon. Alice was received politely in good society and her adventures not questioned. But now let us take a dip into her subconscious self.

A Fine Paranoiac Picture

"Yes, the poor girl was surely quite mad," laughed Mr. Tridon. "Lewis Carroll projected his own strange fancies into this character of a little girl and pictured a fine paranoiac!

"Alice had the delusion of great size and of personal grandeur we call 'megalomania.' She grew so big and so far above the earth that her head was in the treetops, and then she felt lonely.

"All she could see when she looked down was an immense length of neck, which seemed to rise like a stalk out of a sea of green leave that lay far below her.

"'What can all that green stuff be?' said Alice. 'And where have my shoulders got to? And oh, my poor hands, how is it I can't see you?' She was moving them about as she spoke, but no result seemed to follow except a little shaking among the green leaves.

"Makes Them Feel Safe"

"People who feel very inferior try to get big or act big for a protection. That makes them safe, they imagine," said Mr. Tridon.

"And then, on the other hand, when Alice reached great size she always wanted to shrink. This desire to be smaller the Freudians explain as a sort of anger at a hostile outside world and a desire to return to the prenatal state, to the complete protection of the mother, to attain a small visibility and thus be safe.

"'What a curious feeling!' said Alice. 'I must be shutting up like a telescope.'

"And so it was indeed; she was now only ten inches high, and her face brightened up at the thought that she was now the right size for going in through the little door into that lovely garden. First, however, she waited for a few minutes to see if she was going to shrink any further.

"Lewis Carroll, like many other paranoiacs, never got caught. They are usually most interesting people. Munchausen, the famous liar, was one. As a raconteur of remarkable exploits he was almost successful. They are brilliant and happy till a failure makes them want to kill themselves," continued the psychoanalyst.

"The paranoiac wants to be perfect to dominate everything. On the other hand, the victim of dementia praecox wants to revert to the child state, and the maniac depressive form, between the two, wants to be like the paranoiac, apparently perfect.

"Children should not read this book. It is an escape from reality, and we must all learn to live so as to meet reality and deal with it. Children are all too prone to run away from it. It is a type of book simply deadly for very young minds. All neurotics love this type of literature, and their number should not be increased by letting the young read such books."

The description of Alice and the little bottle which had a label, "Drink me," might be a mild prediction of Volsteadian proceedings.

"It was all very well to say, 'Drink me,' but the wise little Alice was not going to do that in a hurry.

"'No, I'll look first,' she said, 'and see whether it is marked poison or not.'"

Alice was afraid of wood alcohol, evidently.

Sees Danger to Children

Tridon continues:

"Even then it is doubtful whether children should be allowed to read legends at an early age. Children identify themselves too easily with the heroes of fairy tales, just as adults did in primitive races. To a child of inventive, aggressive temperament they may be an inspiration. To the dreamy child they may be an invitation to follow the line of least resistance, to dream about deeds instead of accomplishing them, to wait for miracles, fairy godmothers and the like. But fairy tales are excellent reading for adults with a sense of reality.

"Then comes the question of Alice's friendship for many and various animals—the rabbits, dodos, March hares, and others.

"Children do not draw the same line grown-ups do between themselves and the animal. The child grants equality to animals," explained the scientist.

How Animals Tolerate Children

"Animals tolerate more from children than from grown-ups.

"It may be that such a relationship in past ages has facilitated the process of the domestication of animals.

"All races in their fancies have had the legends of helpful animals. Romulus and Remus were fed by the she-wolf; Lohengrin found a friendly swan; prophets were fed by ravens, and Greek poets were aided by eagles.

"Animals at peace with the humans is a favorite day dream of humanity. In Spain small boys lead murderous bulls who would trample an adult to death.

"Totemism probably has this feeling as a basis. That is why the young races have understandings with animals. We find it in Indian lore, and a good example of it is in Kipling's 'Jungle Book.'

"Grown-ups don't understand this at all. Children have highly developed instincts. A child, for example, will be afraid of a mother who has a desire to kill him."

The action of the Government in West Virginia was largely the result of recommendations of General H. H. Bandholtz. Shortly after General Bandholtz arrived President Harding issued an ultimatum to the miners.

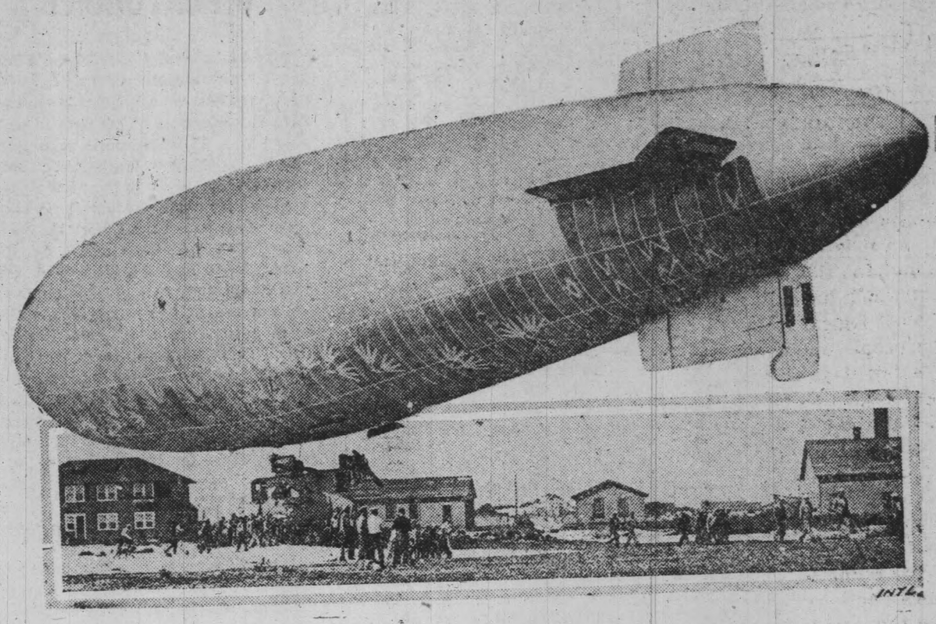
D-6, SISTER AIRSHIP OF ILL-FATED ZR-2, BURNS IN HANGAR



As if unable to survive the awful destruction of her sister airship in England, D-6, largest dirigible in the United States Navy, burned at her hangar, in Rockaway, New York. Divers were still at work on the wreck of the ZR-2, in the Humber River, England, when the flash came that the D-6 was in flames. Despite all that the men in charge could do, the airship and hangar were completely destroyed. No one was hurt. The picture shows the D-6 just before the fire, as the men were preparing to take her to the great hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., where it was intended that both the D-6 and the ZR-2 should be permanently stationed. As a result of the fire which destroyed the D-6, Henry Woodhouse, president of nation-wide aircraft organizations, has urged that all contracts for airships be cancelled by the government.

WORDS TO THE WISE

(By International News Service)

BUCYRUS, O., Sept. 8.—"Is this the news room?" inquired a man's voice over the telephone in a local newspaper office.

"It is," was the reply.

The newspaperman passed up the item.

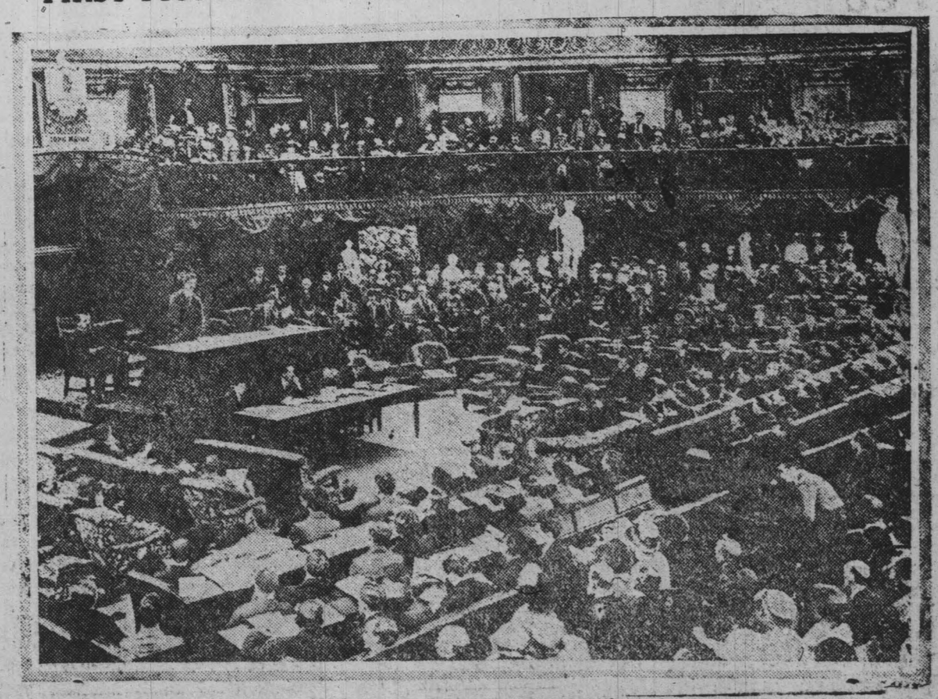
FIRST PICTURES OF DAIL EIREANN'S HISTORIC SESSION



Shall it be peace or war in Ireland? Upon this gathering fell the decision. De Valera is addressing the session. In front of the speaker's dais are the official reporters and the clerk of the Dail. In the roped-off section are the American visitors. High civic and Church officials are interested spectators. In the galleries, crowded to suffocation, is the general public. Many of those in the galleries are said to be enlisted in the Irish Republican Army. All but actual members of the Dail were barred from the session, at which the reply to Lloyd George was drafted. This is the first picture received of an actual session.

How Hiram Won an Opera Star

By DOROTHY WHITCOMB

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"That big white house on the cliffs yonder, mister?" asked the old guide. "That's Hiram Smith's place. He's one of the richest men round here and we think a deal of him. We called that 'Hiram's Folly' once, but folks don't call it that any more, for now it's a house, and then it was a barn without a roof, and nobody thought Hiram would get the money to finish it. That bit of an old wreck there was the 'Patagonia' once, and she was a fine ship in the days when she used to ply between Boston and Portland. It was when she went ashore that we stopped speaking of 'Hiram's Folly.'"

In his vivid speech he drew the man's picture until I could visualize him—Hiram Smith, the young fisherman, baiting his lobster pots or acting as guide, during the brief summer months, to the visitors at Rundle's Bay. One summer there came a party of opera singers from New York who had taken the strange fancy to pay a week's visit to this little coastal village of Maine.

But even there the fame of Marian Kempner had spread. It was not her genius that was admired, but the fact that she, a girl of twenty-five, born in Iowa of simple farmer stock, had been so endowed by nature that she earned thousands of dollars in one evening by the gift of her voice. When Hiram Smith first saw her in his boat he stared at her till he nearly lost his oars. She was the most beautiful woman whom he had ever seen. And when she sang, the world seemed suddenly a thing of crystal and fire to him.

Marian Kempner was at first amused and then interested in the devotion of the young fisherman.

And on the last evening Hiram Smith offered her "his heart and hand." Those were his words, she told the laughing crowd at the hotel. He wanted her to share his cottage and his lobster pots! And when she had shriveled his self-esteem with a few kindly, yet cutting words, he said simply:

"I will win you yet."

Hiram Smith never followed the sea again. He disappeared for two years. When he returned he deposited a thousand dollars in the bank and bought the piece of ground on which, stone by stone, he erected "Hiram's Folly." It grew as his bank deposit increased, but Smith became known as a master of finance, in a small way, the greediest man in New England, and the shrewdest at bargaining. He built a store that ousted all others.

The years passed slowly. Hiram was a man of thirty-five, and Marian about his age, when the tragedy of her life happened. For ten years she had been a "star." Now her voice failed her. She had never married. At first she lived in the hope of regaining her vocal powers. Then, forced to earn a living, she went on the stage.

One day when she was at the end of her resources, a stranger introduced himself to her. He wished to start a company of his own. Would she be the perpetual "star," and let him bear the expense and take what profits there were? She consented. Marian Kempner had become the pensioner of an unknown man.

About this time "Hiram's Folly" was completed. The empty house stood on the hill. Hiram was often to be seen upon the cliffs, spy-glass in hand. People said that he was waiting for some ship that never came in.

The summer after his retirement the order went out that Mariata's company was to tour New England, especially the coast towns. It played from Newport to Bangor and back again. The next year the same itinerary was scheduled. And that was when the Pantagonia found her end upon the rocks of Rundle's reef. It as a wild winter's morning when Marian's company found their vessel stranded off shore, in danger of breaking up. Hiram Smith was first to volunteer in the lifeboat crew. And the first person whom he encountered upon the vessel's deck was Miriam. He drew her to his side.

"There's plenty of time," he said. "The ship don't look like breaking up for a while. You wouldn't be sorry if the company broke up with her, I reckon?"

"No," she said, looking at him. "No."

"Some folks' lives break up like ships," said Hiram, and that was the wildest flight he ever made into metaphor.

"Yes," she said, laughing and shivering in the wind. "You're right."

"You don't remember Rundle's Bay?" asked Hiram. "You were never here before?'

"Yes," she answered with sudden remembrance. "That was long ago, though—fourteen years and more."

"It's been longer for me," answered Hiram Smith. "You don't recall that boat ride down by the reef and how I said I'd get you again? I've got all I've wanted but you, Miriam. Now I'm going to have you as well. That's our house on the hill. Now we'll get into the boat."

That was all the guide's story. But, knowing the depths that underlie the calm exterior of the New England nature, I suspected that there was more. And I pictured Hiram, whose 14 years were rewarded, and his relentless quest that was crowned with success. Then, looking up, I saw children on the steps of "Hiram's Folly" and heard their distant laughter, and then I knew that the story had not been told in its completeness.

Former residents of Jones county, Iowa, who are now in California, will hold their annual picnic in Sycamore Grove park on Saturday, September 17. C. H. Parsons, W. W. Stutzman and other speakers, will be present.

PARENT-TEACHERS ORGANIZE EFFORT

A business meeting of the board of directors of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher Association was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, 462 Riverdale drive, at which the duties of chairmen were assigned.

One important motion which carried called for the purchase of a "mother count" prize, to be awarded to the room which persuades the most mothers to come out to the regular monthly P.-T. A. meeting. The board decided that interest would be intensified if the character of the prize remained a mystery.

At the conclusion of the session refreshments were served by Mrs. Rosenberg.

Ladies present were: Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, president; Mrs. W. E. Farlander, vice-president; Mrs. Grover Adams, secretary; Mrs. Leslie Tronsier, parliamentarian; Mrs. Ross Russell, historian; and the following chairmen—Mrs. W. H. Kelley, membership; Mrs. P. O. Lucas, program; Mrs. R. Brown, ways and means; Mrs. C. J. Tuttle, patriotism; Mrs. L. O. Kittridge, juvenile court; Mrs. Harry A. McMullin, visiting; Mrs. Fannie O. Stone, playground and improvement; Mrs. Ray Phillips, domestic science; Mrs. J. F. Tatlow, legislation; Mrs. Truman Curtis, philanthropy, and Mrs. Walter Stamps, courtesy.

MRS. GIBSON'S BIRTHDAY

An annual party was given Mrs. Martha Gibson, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. eJack Houle, 122 East Maple on Wednesday, when a number of friends, dressed as school girls, surprised her at noon. The occasion was Mrs. Gibson's birthday—which one, we know not. However, a jolly bunch helped to prepare a delicious luncheon, which was consumed in regular school girl fashion. After the table was cleared, various games were enjoyed. In the guessing contest, first prize was won by Mrs. Peter Ferry and the consolation prize by Mrs. Jess Chattius. The high score whist prize was won by Mrs. Fred Heusman and the consolation prize by Mrs. Harry Smith. Readings, music and songs helped to make a very enjoyable party. The guests were: Mrs. Peirce, Mrs. Jack Lundregan, Mrs. Carrie Smith, Mrs. Chas. Rudel, Mrs. May O'Brien, Mrs. Jess Chattius, Mrs. Peter Ferry, Mrs. Jack Houle and the honored one, Mrs. Martha Gibson.

HOOPER STATION INSPECTED

About 20 members of the tire craft of the San Gabriel Valley Auto Trades Association were in Glendale last night visiting the new service station of the William H. Hooper Company at the corner of East Broadway and Louise street.

After inspecting the station and complimenting the owners of it a short meeting was held to discuss the problems that are facing the tire dealers at present. The chief topic of discussion was the practice of allowing discounts to various organizations on the purchase of tires.

Several members of the association that attended the meeting gave short trade talks that were intensely interesting to those present. The delegation at the meeting last night represented Alhambra, Pasadena and South Pasadena. A similar meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Auto Trades Association will be held tonight at Jesse Smith's Ford Agency.

EIGHT YEAR KILLER

MARTINEZ, Cal., Sept. 8.—Whether 8-year-old Richard Johnson, son of former District Attorney Thomas B. Johnson of Contra Costa county, must face a charge of murder for the killing of Lawrence Casey, also aged 8, was to be determined this afternoon by a coroner's jury.

A childish dare resulted in the killing. The lads quarreled. Richard rushed to his home and secured a 22 calibre rifle. Returning he leveled it on the Casey lad, who, unafraid, cried: "I'm not scared, I dare you to shoot."

Richard pulled the trigger. The crowd of boys dissolved as by magic. Lawrence ran up a hill to his home, fell gasping, "I'm shot."

SELECT WORKERS BY LOTTERY SYSTEM

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—A lottery system is being employed by the city engineering department for the purpose of selecting workers.

By this method between 80 and 100 Columbus married men, numbering among the local army of 15,000 unemployed laborers, are chosen weekly. These men are limited to one week's work in order that work may be given to as many of the unemployed as possible. They are paid 50 cents an hour for helping build a high-pressure 12-inch fire protection main in the downtown district.

The applicants for work, numbering in the hundreds, each Friday or Saturday place their names on slips of paper. Drawings are made from the slips until all vacancies are filled. Preference is given to registered voters.

A. AMBROSINI AND SON-IN-LAW BUILD HOMES HERE

Anthony Ambrosini was seen today clad in overalls and jumper with trowel in hand working on the foundation of a new 5-room bungalow he and his son-in-law, Theodore Merik are erecting for the latter at 137 South Isabel street. Mr. Ambrosini owns the lot just north of the one on which this home is being constructed and it is his intention to build a fine residence on his lot within a short time. Mr. Ambrosini and Mr. Merik also own 18 lost in Eagle Rock and it is their intention to build a number of homes on them this fall.

Even If You Could "Coast" In the Old "Bus" EVERYWHERE
IT WOULD COST YOU MORE THAN PACIFIC ELECTRIC FARES

THE GAS you burn is only a small item in your total cost of operation. Add to that the cost of oil, rubber, repairs and depreciation in the value of the machine, and see "where you are getting off."

The Government says it is costing you from 9c to 14c per mile.

You can ride the Pacific Electric way for 3c per mile for the occasional journey and for about 1½c per mile for the frequent (commutation) trips.

"CAN YOU BEAT IT?" YOU CAN NOT!

Ask any Pacific Electric Agent for the Commutation Fare on tickets best adapted to your travel needs. He will show you the true way to travel economy, and you do not carry the accident risk.

VICTOR HUGO IN OLD AGE

In His Reminiscences Saint-Saens Tells of Colossal Intellect Affected by the Years.

Saint-Saens, the great composer, in his "Musical Memories" has some interesting reminiscences of Victor Hugo, who was an old man when he knew him, but who seemed "rather like an ageless and immortal being whom time could never touch."

"Time, alas! goes on, and that fine intellect which had ever been unclouded began to give signs of aberration. One day he said to an Italian delegation: 'The French are Italians; the Italians are French. French and Italians ought to go to Africa together and found the United States of Europe.'

"Victor Hugo's credulity was astonishing in a man of such colossal genius. Hearing that the remains of Voltaire and Rousseau had been exhumed and desecrated, he wrote a wonderful account of it. When the coffins were opened, the two great men were peacefully sleeping their last sleep.

"He believed in the most incredible things, as the 'Man in the Iron Mask,' the twin brother of Louis XIV; in the octopus that has no mouth and feeds itself through its arms, and in the reality of the Japanese sirens which the Japanese were said to make out of an ape and a fish. He had some excuse for the sirens, as the Academie des Sciences believed in them for a short time."—Chicago American.

Children Hold Future of Music.

The future of music as an instrument of culture lies with the children of the people. Nowhere but in the elementary schools can they be reached. Colleges of music are necessary to train the professional, but the education committees of the great towns have the largely neglected opportunity of making the rising generation a music-loving public. The innate faculty of appreciation is there, and is commonly diffused among scholars of the most essentially industrial areas. It only needs direction and cultivation, for one of the greatest pleasures to be added to the amenities of town life, pleasures at present so lamentably few. The main idea is to teach the children how to appreciate and enjoy good music, how to become intelligent listeners, rather than to become performers themselves.—Exchange.

Romans Disapproved of Dancing.

Of all the amusements that we indulge in nowadays, perhaps dancing is the oldest. Dancing seems to be one of man's primitive instincts. The Greeks were, perhaps, the greatest dancers there have ever been. Some of them held that the destiny of nations depended on the rigorous attention given to dancing. The Spartans made dancing necessary as a gymnastic exercise; but the Romans disapproved of it. "No one dances sober unless he chances to be mad," said one of them. And they all considered it was disgraceful for a free citizen to dance, unless it were at a religious festival. The early Christians practiced choral dances, although St. Augustine is said to have objected. He certainly said: "It is better to dig than dance."

Mohammedan Law.

In the Moslem state of Turkey the laws of the empire rest in principle on the basis of the Koran, the Hadith, or traditions of Mohammed, and the reported sayings of his successors, all of which are binding upon the sovereign of the state as upon all Moslems. Each successive sultan, however, has enacted statutes as suited his individual purpose and, by virtue of his absolute authority, his laws have stood until others have swept them away. The nearest approach to a Supreme court justice is the sultan. He interprets (?) the law as he thinks best for his people.—New York Tribune.

Seeing Without Eyes.

That the blind can perceive light and darkness is asserted by Dr. A. Cantonnet in Medicine (Paris). Doctor Cantonnet tested eyeless seeing machinery by bandaging his eyes light-proof and concentrating his attention for 50 hours on perception of light. He found that he could then perceive not merely light and darkness but also large and shining objects.

Testing many blind persons, he found the same ability. He attributes this vision without eyes to Ranvier's sensory cells, which have a nerve sensation with the brain centers.

The Guileless Yokel.

James R. Howard, president of the Farm Bureau federation, said in Washington the other day:

"The farmer is going to market his own product hereafter. The farmer of the past, who let the middleman collar all the profit of the farm, was more guileless than Cornelius Husk.

"Corn Husk, you know, came to New York to see his uncle. He got off at the Pennsylvania station and asked a policeman how long a walk it was to his uncle's place.

"'You'd better take the elevated,' the policeman said, handing back the card with the address on it. 'It's a seven-mile walk to where you're going.'

"'Well, by crinus, I'll walk her, anyhow,' said Corn Husk. 'Seven miles, though! Say, ain't there no short cut across the fields?"

HIS WAGES ONE CENT A YEAR

Early Carrier of Mails Certainly Not in the Business for Purpose of Making Money.

Maurice Proctor, a man of wealth, was so anxious for his coach to bear the distinguishing "U. S. Mail" sign of the postal service that he made absolutely certain, when a service line was established between Mineral Point (where he lived) and Dodgeville, Ia., he would be the lucky one allotted the honor.

There were 20 competitors and each turned sick with disgust when they heard of the bid of the wealthier man, says an early volume of the Strand Magazine. It was the custom then to ask prospective employees to bid for the job, as contractors bid now. Proctor bid 1 cent. Which is to say, he volunteered to do the job for a remuneration of 1 cent a year in wages.

Every day, rain or shine, he twice carried the mail between the two cities, proud of the "U. S. Mail" on the side of his coach. At the end of the year his enthusiasm had not worn off, so he renewed his contract, agreeing to do the work at the same rate for four more years—in all, for 4 cents. The government considered him financially responsible for this amount, and gave him the job. The 4 cents were paid to him in four annual installments.

His pay for the first year came in the form of a postal warrant signed by the secretary of the treasury and made out to the order of the carrier, Maurice Proctor. It was in payment for his services, and the amount was 1 cent. Needless to say, it was considered as a great curiosity, so the carrier sold it at once for $36.

BUNGALOWS BUILT BY BIRDS

Are Not Used as Nests, but Seemingly Only Constructed as a Matter of Decoration.

Arbor-like bungalows are built by Australian bower birds. These bungalows are decorated by the birds with flowers and other bright objects.

Sometimes one bird will move a flower placed in position by a fellow. The result is a free fight, for none of the birds will tolerate interference or criticism.

There are several different kinds of bungalows, and each is built by a variety of the bower bird. These structures have nothing whatever to do with the birds' nests. There is a garden in front of the bungalow, and great attention is paid to keeping this fresh. Some of the birds prefer shells as a garden decoration; others use gaily-colored beetles and other insects, while one bird lays out a lawn of moss, which it decorates with all kinds of odds and ends. As soon as any part of the garden becomes faded, the moss, leaves, or flowers are carried to a rubbish heap behind the bungalow.

Dancing displays are given on the lawns, especially at courting time, when the males adopt all kinds of queer attitudes and sing songs to attract the attention of the opposite sex.

Arabia.

Arabia is a peninsula in the southwest of the Asiatic continent, forming the connecting link between Asia and Africa, lying between the Persian gulf and the Gulf of Oman on the east and the Red sea on the west, the two continents being united at the Isthmus of Suez. Arabia is divided into many kingdoms and principalities, each of which has its own capital, as follows: The kingdom of Hejaz, with Mecca as its capital; the emirate of Nejh and Hasa, with Riyadh as capital; the principality of Koweit, with Koweit as capital; the sultanate of Oman, with Muscat as capital; the emirate of Jabel Shammer, with Hail as capital; the emirate of Asir, with Eborah as capital, and the imamate of Yemen, with Saria as capital.

Perfect Venus Dug Up In Cyrene Baths

By EDWARD P. STRUTT,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Sept. 8.—What enthusiastic archeologists describe as the most perfect Venus hitherto come to light has just been discovered in the Thermal or Baths of Cyrene, where extensive excavations are being carried on under the direction of Professor Ghislauzoni.

The statue, somewhat larger than life-size, is in perfect state of preservation, the lovely head and arms untouched by time, and belong to the Greco-Roman period, bearing a strong resemblance to the Venus of the Capitol. It will be remembered that another magnificent statue of Venus, unfortunately headless, was discovered a few years ago at Cyrene and is now one of the greatest treasures of the Museo delle Terme, in Rome.

When Prof. Ghislauzoni saw the beautiful work of art emerging from the soil like Venus from the waves he became so excited that he shouted to the Arab workmen to put up their spades, lest they might injure the statue in the slightest detail, and with eager hands proceeded to remove the millennial earth reverently, as if unveiling a goddess. Unfortunately he sustained some abrasions of the skin of the hands, which became infected, and for some time it was feared that he would succumb to blood-poisoning.

Latest advices from Bengasi, however, announce that the professor is out of danger and will shortly have the satisfaction of personally escorting the most beautiful Venus in the world to Rome.

Poet Paid $5,000 For Gentle Influence

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Discovered—the world's softest job.

Robert Frost, New England poet, has it. All he has to do is to live in Ann Arbor, Mich., and let his artistic influence flow out over the campus and through the academic corridors of the University of Michigan.

For this he is to receive $5,000 a year!

And he doesn't have to instruct a single class in the art of making "blue" and "you" rhyme, with the correct number of feet to the line.

According to an announcement by Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the university, Mr. Frost was retained as the beginning of a plan to spread culture among the students through the medium of personal contact rather than by classroom instruction.

"Students Will Benefit"

"The student body will benefit immeasurably merely by contact with a great and loving personality," said Dr. Burton. "We desire only that the artist shall be merely a human being. This time we have chosen a poet. He will come to live here in September and remain for a year. Next time we may secure a sculptor, a painter or a scholar. A gift of $5,000 from former Governor Chase S. Osborn has made the poet's visit possible."

The new venture has created a sensation in academic circles here. Following are a few opinions expressed by Chicago educators:

"The experiment represents an interesting return to the patronage system of artists which broke down about one hundred and fifty years ago. It will be a great thing for Michigan."—Dean P. H. Boynton, of the University of Chicago.

"I think it would do the institution more good if the poet would give instruction in the form of regular class work. Class work offers unparalleled opportunity for personal contact and influence with the students."—Prof. C. H. Judd, Chicago University.

"It would be a great stroke of genius if universities would adopt this as a definite policy. Many men are hindered by classes. It's only a scholarship plan for professors instead of students."—Prof. C. F. Taeusch, of Northwestern University.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Luster at Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

PLAYFUL TIDE STEALS DRESS OF TEACHER

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The tide played a mean trick on the senior mistress of an exclusive girls' school at Eastbourne. She stole away for a quiet swim, undressed on the seashore and paddled around for half an hour. When she emerged she discovered that the tide had carried away all her clothes but one flimsy garment. She had to walk five miles in a broiling sun, clad in a one-piece bathing suit.

Apples and dates are as beneficial to the teeth as sweets are harmful.
